

The recent moves by this commission to further deregulate the media are bad for our democracy. I urge the commission to open the matter to broader debate, rather than rushing these new rules into effect.

The American people overwhelmingly oppose further concentration of media power.